

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A low flow ultrasonic insert has an internal fluid flow channel which extends between an operative tip geometry and a body portion of insert. The channel terminates at the tip geometry with a fluid flow output. A fluid flow input is provided for the channel in the body portion where a transverse slot intersects the channel.